THOMAS CARLYLE'S WIFE Once shrewdly remarked, "There's no knowing what Mr. Carlyle might have been but for dyspepsia." Doubtless dyspepsia was the cause of his gloom and irritability. Had he taken Ayre's Pills he would have been a healthier and happier man.

"I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was continually afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. After trying various remedies, I finally began to use Ayer's Fills, and soon my appetite improved. my bowels were regulated, and I became well." -D. M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

THE CHICAGO BREWERS' STRIKE to have the party acting in accord once more that they forgot that they had been forced to back down, and they were smiling with the rest. Immediately Due to the Employers' Refusal to Recognize the Union. CHICAGO, April 12.—It appears that for some time past no individual brewery owner has made a contract with the individual men he employed, but they were payed and worked according to the schedule of wages and hours fixed by the contract with the union. Yesterday a strike committee, in spite of the published declarations of the bosses that they would not sign the contracts, made the demand that the contracts be made for another year. This proposition was flatly rejected. The bosses declared that they would make terms each with his own men. The question was then raised whether the bosses would recognize the Brewers' and Malsters' Union at all, and the bosses answered in the negative. The representatives of the union were told that the tosses did not object to a trades union on general principles, but did not want to deal with one that was in the hands of an anarchist. Matt. Schmeidinger, who was present as a representative of the Central Labor Union, in the course of the discussion on this point avowed that he was an anarchist. The discussion became heated, and the representatives of the men withdrew very much dissatisfied.

The Chicago union is in bad financial condition. It had about $12,000 in the treasury a few months ago, but a large part of this money was used in derending the anarchists and in support of their widows and orphans. The brewers were more interested in this matter than other trade unions, for the reason that it owes its organization to Oscar Neebe, the anarchist who was sentenced to inteen years in the pententiary. a contract with the individual men he employed, Strike in a Cincinnati Brewery. Cincinnati, April 12.—There is a strike in Moerlin's brewery, which grew out of the discharge yesterday of a cellar man. The men claim that he was unjustly discharged for an attempted disobedience of rules. About thirty-six of the 150 men are already out and the dissatisfaction is surreading.

NEW YORE, April 12, 11 a.m.—The stock market was quiet at the opening this morning, but prices were firm to strong at advances over last evening's closing figures of from ½ to ½ per cent, the latter in Missouri Pacific. There was no change in the character of the dealings from that existing during the previous days of this week; but the same stagnation in the general list, with the transactions monopolized by a few leading stocks, and the fluctuations confined to the narrowest limits were the principal features of the market. Reading and Western Union were the active stocks, followed by St. Paul, Lake Shore, and Erie, and in these stocks there were slight advances of from ½ to ½ per cent in the early trading, which were followed by losses which carried prices in some cases slightly below those of the opening. There was no further movement in the market except Missouri Pacific, which developed weakness and declined 1½ per cent. At 11 o'clock the market was quiet but heavy, generally at slight fractions below first prices. From Wall Street To-day.

An Angry Bridegroom's Fatal Shot. Titusville, Pa., April 12.—Frank Snarl married Miss Lizzie Stevenson, at Cherry Tree, Tuesday night, and a number of boysgave him a charivari. LIVELY TIMES IN THE HOUSE.

Scenes at the Session To-day. The most exciting incidents of the session occurred in the House to-day. The democratic caua party to adjourn the House to-day. It was a victory for the filibusterers. The whole democratio party was smiling when the House met at 11:45. The democratic advocates of the bill were so glad

A BOLT. The first ripple of excitement was when Mr. Sowden, or Pennsylvania (democrat), voted "no" on Mr. Cox's motion to adjourn. Mr. Sowden had on Mr. Cox's motion to adjourn. Mr. Sowden had boited the caucus. The republicans appliauded loudly. The democrats were surprised, and many of the strongest democratic friends of the bill urged him to change his vote. Mr. O'Ferrall and Mr. Dibble, who had been the most ardent advocates of the bill, pleaded with him to follow them in the surrender. But surrender he would not. No one followed his example, however. There was no other bolter, and the importance of his vote seemed triffing. But the call was close. After all in the hall had voted the tallyclerk spoke to Mr. Carlisle, and he asked to have his name called, voting aye. Every one knew then that the vote must be very close. Mr. Cheadle, a republican, then claimed that he was on the floor when his name was called, and his vote in the negative was recorded. Mr. Phelan made a similar claim and voted for adjournment. This ended the voting. The only break in the party lines was made by Mr. Sowden.

EXCITEMENT OVER THE CLOSE VOTE.

EXCITEMENT OVER THE CLOSE VOTE. The House began to swell with excitement. The tally-slip could be seen from the press gallery, and n order, with the hope of a different result. They agreed to vote their own motion down. But all the party did not understand it, and many started to vote the wrong way. The "leaders" waved their arms like wings of a wind-mill, and shouted, "Down!" "Sit down!" They dropped one by one until but one democrat stood, looking about him in bewilderment. He sat down assoon as he could comprehend the situation, and the whole House, both sides, voted against a call of the House.

Mr. Cox then moved an adjournment, and all joined in calling for yeas and nays on the motion. The roil-call then proceeded, meanwhile both particle head been. ties had been

By carrying the fight beyond to-day the fillbustrs accomplished something besides the postpone ment and possible defeat of the direct-tax bill. To-day was set for the "swamp-land bill," which, they say, is similar in character to the direct-tax bill, and involves an expenditure of about $20,000,000.
This bill cannot now, it is believed, get another day set for its consideration. They consider this

LOST DAYS. The understanding is that the bills having special assignments which have lost their day by the dead-lock will not recover their position. the dead-lock will not recover their position. There may be one or two that will get time after the tariff bill is disposed of, but the general purpose is to let them drop.

To-morrow is private-bill day, and it is not certain that there will be a session on Saturday. Monday is committee-suspension day, and Tuesday the tariff is to be called up. The last is to be the order until disposed of, although debate may give way at some period to let an appropriation bill slip through.

THERE IS SOME TALK among republicans of filibustering against the tariff bill, but it is not general, and how serious It is does not appear now.

There is a compensation for this he thinks in the defeat of the "Swamp-land bill."

The democrats are generally in a good humor, and declare to expect to pass the tariff .bill.

The Accident to the Tug Fortune. While the tug Fortune was on her way to Norfolk from New York the piston and valves of her air-pump broke disabling her condensing or low pressure engine. She is now at Annapolis on her way to Washington working her high pressure engine. She has stores on board for the navy-yard here, and as soon as she delivers them she will go to Norfolk for repairs. It is thought at the Department that is the accident was due to the rusting of the broken parts, which have been in use for a long time. From rough drawings of the valves and piston of the that have been received at the Bureau of Steam Engineering, it is estimated that it will take several weeks to repair the damage.

The republicans had won a victory and were waiting for the announcement to give vent to their joy. The democrats were in a state of consternation. Consultations were held in every direction. Men who had not voted were looked for in vain. Some who had voted grasped at the forlorn hope that they had not been recorded. Mr. Maish was one of these, but he was recorded. They lorget the treaty of 1818 and that the English people were tenacious in holding to everything they could. In my opinion the more public the treaty is made the better, for when it is submitted to the American people in all its bearings, and intelligently discussed, they will see how favorable it is to us."

Cheer after cheer they gave, and shouts of derision were heard. The democrats were all on their feet in a state of bewilderment, Cox, Randali and Mo-Millin each sought to lead and each failed to do it. Members crowded about Sowden to get him to change his vote. Hints to House-Renters. From the Chicago Tribune. The bath-room of the house should be viewed with the temper of an unfriendly critic. There with the temper of an unfriendly critic. There should be made a close examination of its contents. The preferable method of plumbing is to leave all such work free from casing and cabinet work as much as possible, leaving the traps under the wash-basin, bath-tub and water-closet open to easy inspection. This also lessens the labor in keeping the room clean and sweet. If the closet is of the old-fashioned cheap "pan" variety, do not rent the house until the landlord agrees to substitute a good closet for it. Be sure there are reliable traps under each of the fixtures in this stitute a good closet for it. Be sure there are reliable traps under each of the fixtures in this room, and if there is any odor in the room the character of the plumbing may be open to criticism, although noxious gases are often without odor. The plumbing in the bath-room may appear to be of good quality and yet there be serious defects in the work which are concealed within the walls. It is not safe to trust to the assurance of the owner or agent in the matter of good plumoing, because, though they may have been honest in their desire to have the work done property, the opportunities for poor work are numerous and are frequently improved by hasty and unscrupulous workmen.

frequently improved by hasty and unscrupulous workmen.

In order to be reasonably sure of the quality of the work a simple test may be applied by the prospective tenant. He should go upon the roof of the house and, if the plumbing has been properly done, he will find two or more cast-iron pipes projecting through the roof. One of these should be four inches in diameter. This is the soil-pipe, and is carried through the roof and left open to permit gases to pass from it freely. Near it should project a two-inch pipe. This is the ventilation pipe, and should be connected with the crown of the traps of the water-closets so as to provide a circulation of air in the pipes and to prevent the siphonage of the traps. Should these projecting pipes not be present it is an evidence that the work is old an inot up to the standard, or that, in new, it has not been carried out in accordance with the city ordinance and good practice.

FRIENDS OF COMMERCIAL UNION ENCOURAGED.—An Ottawa dispatch says: It is ascertained that there was a large amount of dodging in the vote recently taken in parliament on the question of commercial union with the United States. It is some particulars, it would be unjust to say that they caimly seek to make life unterly undestrable to a large and unprotected part of the human face. But the new trouble is one which cannot be lightly treated, since it is having disastrous effects in some places. It is new hich is going to make the kissing of some young women a deadly peril, and possibly in consequence destroy one of the sweetest luxuries of life.
